Someone took notice of the high beam nuisance

HM Hyderabad Mail @Hyderabad_Mail • 4h
Campaign against use of high beams launched in Hyderabad

Hyderabad: Honking of cars may seem a menace to many, but not everyone is bothered about the potential risks of super-bright headlights. To raise awareness among the drivers about the appropriate use of headlights, @TopDriverIndia conducted a 'No High Beam' campaign in Hyderabad on Saturday evening. The road safety enthusiasts explained the blinding effects of high beams on fellow motorists and pedestrians to the drivers. #Hyderabad #Campaign #NoHighBeam

Amazing bright lights

Reviewed in the United States on November 24, 2024

Style: H13

Amazing bright lights, I piss everyone off on the road but I don't care as long I can see outside like the daylight at night. I love them and recommend them. You will get people flashing their high beams but when you flash your back and they can see the light of the creator they calm the f down. I really recommend them.

I honestly feel like the proliferation of LED headlights was the canary in the coalmine for the general attitude we see in the political climate these days and i'm not even remotely kidding

ottermatopoeia

Very much in line with the attitude of "this choice will marginally improve the way I move through the world and make everyone else's experience SIGNIFICANTLY worse, but I don't really care, based simply on the fact that I am allowed to do it and there's nothing they can or will do to stop me" ya feel me?
